MAKE PLANS TO ATTEND

Plan to join us on Saturday July, 19, 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. for homemade ice-cream and cookies, as well as drinks for a donation of $5.00 per person. Tickets for children ten and under are free. We will also be holding a 50-50 raffle. Tickets will be $1 each or six for $5. You need not be present to win.

VISITORS

A recent visitor at the museum was Cheryl Harness, author of historical children's books, and winner of the 2014 Missouri Humanities Award. Her work focuses on both American and Missouri history. She was in town for a presentation at the Tuscumbia School.

Lysha Thompson, Matthew Stockwell, Olivia Diefenbach, Cheryl Harness, Dustin Bax, Kyle Tallant; Front, Isabelle Sears, Caleb Martonfi

Also visiting was a large group of members of the Lake St. Louis Historical Society. What a fun group!

And The Eldon third graders visited in May.

MOLASSES PRESS

A recent donation to our museum was a molasses press. It is believed that this press was once owned by the Schlesinger family. It has been restored by Kenny Wyrick.

The Sorghum Grinder

by Lois E. Edwards King

East of our house by the creek branch was our sugar cane patch. Each spring it would be planted and grew to great height by the end of summer. In the fall of the year, several men with a mill press would show up to press the sweet sorghum from the sugar cane. The mill was a large tub into which the cane was hand fed. Horses were hooked up to long poles that extended from the tub and would slowly turn the press like a carnival merry-go-round. A pan under the tub caught the drippings which were emptied into a large vat over an open fire. The contents of the vat needed constant stirring in order that the sugary sorghum not stick and burn. At the end of this process, the extracted sorghum molasses would be dripped into jars or cans for storage and would provide us with sweetener throughout the winter and until the next fall. Gingersnap cookies and gingerbread made with the molasses are a few of the delicious baked goods I remember the most. One year there was such a good crop that Mom had a surplus in her pantry which she sold in order to buy my sister, Ruth, a new watch. The odor of the sweet molasses floated all the way up the hill and smelled so good when I came home from school. There is nothing better than homemade bread with butter and molasses for an after school snack.

THIS 'N THAT

- We are currently looking for pictures of veterans of the Korean War and the Vietnam War. If you have any pictures to share, please contact us. We are needing original photos of good quality that we can scan.
- http://www.thefacesofmargraten.com/ is a project to collect as many photos as possible of the soldiers buried/ memorialized at the American War Cemetery and Memorial Netherlands in Margraten. If you have photos of anyone buried there, please contact them at the website above.
- Many states lacked clear regulations for birth records until the late 19th or early 20th century. Earliest statewide registration began in 1841 in Massachusetts. The latest statewide registration began in New Mexico in 1920.
- Missouri Digital Heritage has digitized land records available to search at www.sos.mo.gov/archives/ resources/land.asp

Missouri Birth and Death Records

The first provision for state-wide registration of births and deaths was enacted July 1, 1883, when the State Board of Health was created for the supervision of those registrations. The county clerks were made registration officers in their respective counties. These records can be found in the clerks' offices of the county courthouses. A portion of these records are on microfilm at the Missouri State Archives. The law concerning birth and death registration was repealed in 1893 and no births or deaths were registered until 1910.
